Opposition Aroused.

More or less opposition to send Coke, the utilities commission's attorney, to Washington on city business, at the city's expense, is already of the Board of Supervisors, headed aroused in the city hall. Several city officials declared this morning that if the city was to send anyone it should be a representative of its own legal department, A. M. Cristy or W. T. Carden, the deputy attorney, who conducted the city's fight for changes in the amendments to the franchise as originally proposed by the utilities

The final draft of the amendments is being worked up today and will be passed to the governor some time this afternoon.

It will be accompanied by a letter for the governor's perusal, expressing the ideas of the utilities commission There has been no formal approval of the amendments by the commission as drawn and propably will not be until after the governor has acted on them.
